

Navigating the new menu labeling requirements just got easier

Here's what you need to know.

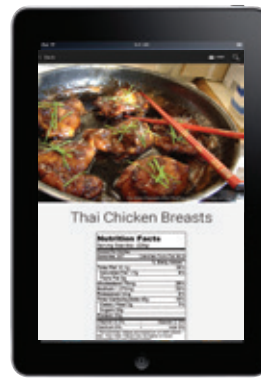

Full disclosure is in store—literally—and Blanc Display Group has the options to help make the transition smooth and easy. It's simple. Calories per serving and expanded nutrition information must be available to customers for all individual servings of "to go" prepared foods*, like salad bars, hot bars, ordered deli sandwiches, etc.

We say "tag it", "top it" or "tablet" to save space, time and trouble! Blanc Display Group has an assortment of fuss-free, specially designed tags and toppers that in corporate the necessary information while also complementing your store's menu — paper literature or menu boards. Plus, our tablet program offers complete prepared food nutrition for each item (store provided information) — a stipulation for compliance—at your fingertips via a discreet, sleek unit accessible to all who seek additional information.

For these items and more call Blanc Display Group your one-stop shopping solutions center at 888-332-5262 or visit us at www.blancind.com.

Informational Easels

Draw attention to your new signage with informational easels. The brief message explains the new tag layout and directs customers to full nutritional values of the items offered.

Interactive Nutrition Tablet

Compliance just got a whole lot easier with our Interactive Nutrition Tablet. The new regulations stipulate that customers must have access to full nutrition values (store provided information) of "to go" or prepared food menu board items. Our slimline tablet is a simple solution.

Table Top Easel

Item name. Check. Calories per serving size. Check. Price. Check. Required statements on menu boards. Check, check. Full nutrition values of menu items via our Interactive Nutrition Tablet or another source and you're good "to go".

FDA required caloric intake statement for a total daily diet.
